

Blue Angels Memorial Project

Since the squadron's inception in 1946, 27 Blue Angels have lost their lives in the line of duty. Currently, there is no permanent Memorial dedicated to paying tribute to those who paid the ultimate sacrifice. We're here to change that.

For nearly 50 years, the Blue Angels have called El Centro their Winter Training Home, and for as long as the Blues have been coming to El Centro, the Navy League's Imperial Valley Council has been doing their part to support the squadron. During these 50 years, there have been six Team members who have died while training at El Centro.

The estimated cost to construct the Memorial is $175,000, and will be constructed at Naval Air Facility El Centro.

Your donations to fund this important project are tax-deductible. Please consider a donation today.
